The Labs Are Normal Video

~60 seconds

Avatar: Avatar 1 (Dismissed Patient), Avatar 6
(Post-Menopausal)

Pillar: Validation

HOOK (0-3 sec)

[VISUAL: Alina looks directly at camera, slight pause before speaking]

If a doctor has ever told you your labs look fine but you feel absolutely terrible, this video is for you.

[TEXT OVERLAY: Labs are "normal" but you feel terrible?]

PROBLEM (3-15 sec)

You've had your bloodwork done. Maybe more than once. And every single time, the doctor looks at the results and says everything looks normal.

But you're exhausted. You're bloated. Your brain feels foggy by noon. And you know something is wrong.

[TEXT OVERLAY: You know something is wrong.]

REFRAME (15-50 sec)

Here's what I want you to know. Standard lab panels don't test for gut function, stomach acid levels, or what's happening with your gut microbiome.

You can have a completely normal blood panel and still have a gut pattern that is driving every single one of your symptoms.

[TEXT OVERLAY: Normal labs don't mean a normal gut.]

I see this constantly in my practice. Women who have been dismissed for years, told it's stress, told it's aging, told it's anxiety, and it turns out there's a very specific gut pattern behind what they're feeling.

There are five of those patterns. And most women have one dominant one they don't even know about.

[VISUAL: Alina holds up one hand, counts off fingers gently as she says 'five patterns']

VIDEO 2	The 5 Gut Patterns Video	~65 seconds
Avatar: All avatars (broad awareness, highest quiz driver)		Pillar: Education + Quiz Drive

HOOK (0-3 sec)

[VISUAL: Alina holds up five fingers before speaking]

After working with hundreds of women, I keep seeing the same five gut patterns come up. And most women have one dominant pattern they don't know about.

[TEXT OVERLAY: 5 gut patterns. Which one is yours?]

THE 5 PATTERNS (3-45 sec)

There's the one where you're exhausted no matter how much you sleep and no matter what you eat. Your energy just never comes back.

There's the one where you react to everything. Foods you used to eat fine are suddenly a problem. Your body feels like it's fighting everything.

There's the one where the cravings feel like they have a life of their own. Sugar, carbs, you know you shouldn't but you can't stop.

There's the one where everything sits heavy. You eat a normal meal and it just stays there. Slow, uncomfortable, full for hours.

And there's the one where you're fine in the morning and completely bloated by 2pm. Every single day.

[TEXT OVERLAY: Which one sounds like you?]

[VISUAL: Count each pattern on fingers as you say them, conversational not clinical]

REFRAME (45-55 sec)

Each one of these has a completely different root cause and a completely different approach. Treating the wrong pattern is why nothing has worked.

VIDEO 3	The Elimination Diet Video	~60 seconds
Avatar: Avatar 2 (Burned-Out Professional), Avatar 4 (Frustrated Dieter)		Pillar: Myth-Busting

HOOK (0-3 sec)

If you've done an elimination diet and you're still bloated, I want to explain exactly why that happened.

[TEXT OVERLAY: Did elimination diets but still bloated?]

[VISUAL: Slight lean toward camera for emphasis]

PROBLEM (3-15 sec)

You cut out gluten. Then dairy. Then you did a full elimination protocol. And you felt better for a little while, or maybe you didn't feel better at all.

And now you're frustrated, because you did everything right and your gut still isn't right.

REFRAME (15-50 sec)

Here's what's actually happening. Elimination diets find your triggers. They don't fix the barrier that's causing the reactions in the first place.

Think of it like this. Imagine your gut lining is supposed to be a screen door, filtering what gets in and what stays out. When that screen has holes in it, everything gets through. Gluten, dairy, foods you've eaten your whole life.

[TEXT OVERLAY: The foods aren't the problem. The barrier is.]

Cutting those foods gives you relief. But the screen still has holes. So the reactions keep coming back, and the list of things you can't eat keeps getting longer.

The foods aren't the problem. The barrier is. And that's a completely different thing to address.

[VISUAL: Use hands to gesture 'screen' and 'holes' naturally as you explain]

The 3pm Crash Video

~55 seconds

Avatar: Avatar 1 (Dismissed Patient), Avatar 5 (Health-Conscious Optimizer)

Pillar: Validation + Wired-and-Tired Archetype Tease

HOOK (0-3 sec)

If you crash every single day around 2 or 3pm, and you've been blaming it on bad sleep or too much coffee, I want to give you a different explanation.

[TEXT OVERLAY: The 3pm crash isn't about coffee.]

[VISUAL: Relaxed, direct, like talking to a friend]

PROBLEM (3-12 sec)

You sleep okay. You've tried cutting caffeine. You've tried eating differently. And that crash still hits at the same time every afternoon like clockwork.

REFRAME (12-45 sec)

Here's what I want you to consider. Your gut and your nervous system are deeply connected. When there's a specific gut pattern I call the Wired-and-Tired pattern, your body is essentially misfiring all day.

Think of a car where the engine timing is off. Every part is technically working, but nothing is firing in the right sequence. So the whole system runs inefficiently and then gives out mid-afternoon.

[TEXT OVERLAY: The food is fine. The system processing it isn't.]

The food is fine. The system processing it isn't. And no amount of coffee fixes a timing problem. It just masks it until the next crash.

[VISUAL: Gesture with hands to illustrate 'misfiring' or 'timing off']

The I've Tried Everything Video

~65 seconds

Avatar: Avatar 4 (Frustrated Dieter), Avatar 3
(Postpartum Rebuilder)

Pillar: Validation

HOOK (0-5 sec)

If you've tried probiotics, cut out gluten, gone dairy-free, done the elimination diet, and you still don't feel right, I need you to hear this.

You haven't failed. You've been solving the wrong problem.

[TEXT OVERLAY: You haven't failed. Wrong problem.]

[VISUAL: Warm, direct, no lecture tone. Like a friend who finally has the answer.]

PROBLEM (5-20 sec)

You've done everything you were supposed to do. You've read the articles, bought the supplements, changed your diet. Multiple times.

And every time something works a little, then stops. Or it never really worked at all. And you're starting to wonder if this is just how you're going to feel.

REFRAME (20-55 sec)

Here's the thing. Every single thing you tried addresses symptoms. Not the pattern underneath them.

Probiotics are a perfect example. They're not wrong, but adding probiotics without knowing your gut pattern is like adding plants to a room with no light. The plants aren't the problem. The conditions aren't right.

[TEXT OVERLAY: Treating symptoms, not the pattern.]

When you know your actual gut pattern, everything changes. You stop guessing. You stop buying things that were never going to work for your specific situation. You start addressing what's actually driving your symptoms.

That's the whole point of the quiz I built.

[VISUAL: Use hand gesture for 'plants, no light' analogy to make it visual]

The Cravings Video

~60 seconds

Avatar: Avatar 4 (Frustrated Dieter), Avatar 2
(Burned-Out Professional)

Pillar: Myth-Busting (Sugar-Driven Archetype)

HOOK (0-4 sec)

If you feel like you have zero willpower around sugar and carbs, I need you to hear this. The cravings might not actually be yours.

[TEXT OVERLAY: The cravings aren't yours.]

[VISUAL: Strong eye contact, slight lean in. This hook should feel like a reveal.]

PROBLEM (4-15 sec)

You know you shouldn't be eating this way. You've tried cutting sugar. You start over every Monday. And by Wednesday you're right back in the same pattern and you feel terrible about yourself.

REFRAME (15-50 sec)

Here's what's actually happening in certain gut patterns. Some bacteria in your gut feed specifically on sugar and refined carbs. And when they're overgrown, they send signals to your brain telling it to want more of exactly what they need to survive.

It's like squatters have moved into your house and figured out how to control the thermostat.

[TEXT OVERLAY: The cravings aren't yours. They're something else's.]

The cravings aren't yours. They're something else's, broadcasting through you. And white-knuckling willpower doesn't work because you're fighting the wrong thing.

This isn't a discipline problem. It's a gut pattern problem.

[VISUAL: Use both hands to gesture 'squatters taking over' as you explain]

CTA (50-60 sec)

Comment QUIZ below. If the sugar cravings feel relentless, there's a specific pattern behind it. The quiz will tell you if that's yours.

The Bloating by Afternoon Video

~65 seconds

Avatar: Avatar 1 (Dismissed Patient), Avatar 6
(Post-Menopausal)

Pillar: Validation + Archetype Tease

HOOK (0-4 sec)

You wake up with a flat stomach and by 2pm you look six months pregnant. I hear this constantly. And I want to tell you what's actually happening.

[TEXT OVERLAY: Flat in the morning. Bloating by afternoon.]

[VISUAL: Alina nods slightly as she says 'I hear this constantly', validating without overdoing it]

PROBLEM (4-15 sec)

You've tried cutting foods. Some things help a little. But it keeps coming back. And every time you eat, even something small, it seems to set it off.

Doctors say everything looks fine. But you're uncomfortable every single afternoon.

REFRAME (15-55 sec)

Here's something most people don't know. There are actually two completely different gut patterns that cause this kind of afternoon bloating, and they need completely different approaches.

One is a location problem. Certain bacteria have migrated somewhere in the gut where they don't belong. And every time you eat, they ferment the food right there and gas builds up through the day.

[TEXT OVERLAY: Two different patterns. Two different solutions.]

The other is a speed problem. Food isn't moving through fast enough, and everything backs up and ferments as the day goes on.

These two patterns look almost identical from the outside, but if you treat the wrong one, you make it worse. Not better.

[VISUAL: Hold up one finger for 'location problem', two fingers for 'speed problem']

CTA (55-65 sec)

Comment QUIZ below. The Gut Pattern Quiz takes two minutes and figures out which of these patterns is behind your bloating. The answer changes everything you try next.
